Ridge Produce has positioned itself to be the produce supply company of exceptional quality for premier New York restaurants. They have a substantial warehouse of garden-fresh produce, a sizable fleet of refrigerated trucks, more than 40 staff members, more than 20 years of experience, and extensive commercial and trade contacts in the fresh produce industry. They have a long standing relationship with customers who benefit from competitive prices and enjoy superior service and reliable delivery routes.

As it is with any new technology, we were apprehensive about using BlueCart in fear of losing the everyday verbal communications we've established with customers. However, as we've been using the platform, it has become apparent that this was the missing link we were needing to strengthen our relationships.

Before using BlueCart, Ridge Produce had issues getting new customers to use their ordering software. With BlueCart, it didn't take any convincing since ordering can easily be done through a mobile app. Now their customers prefer using BlueCart over their old system. With daily real time price updates, clients like that they can see new products and hand pick their orders. BlueCart has been a great way to help grow their business.
